Now!

"Tomorrow never comes." Who loiters on the way must pay—and dearly. When we shirk our work we flirt with failure. The time to DO is TODAY. The glory of our past achievements casts no golden halo around the doings of today, or the dreams of the future here. What is TO BE remains to be accomplished. We must be up and DOING or inactivity will be our UNDOING. Time is money—or moneyless—as we choose to make it. "Tomorrow never comes."

IRON SPRINGS

Owing to the excitement over the prospect of the strike, a number of families have gone home but the camp is by no means deserted. There are still thirty-three families left up here and the most of them expect to remain here till the fifteenth and a few expect to stay till the first of October. There have been four cottages opened for the first time this summer, since the first of September. The dining room is usually closed by this time in the season, but at present Mrs. Mosier is serving twenty-four for dinner and six for breakfast and lunch. This all goes to show that if the strike and station could be kept open till October first, that a good many would enjoy staying till then. A good suggestion has been made, that instead of the camp opening the first of June, it be opened two weeks later and not closed till October first. The tennis players are not so many at the present time. The golf players are still numerous and every morning they enjoy the game. Some of them going back late in the afternoon for a second game. Friday morning Iron Springs awoke to find the storm clouds hanging all around. It commenced to rain about nine o'clock with the slow drizzle that meant an all day's rain. About ten o'clock a pretty sight was witnessed, when the clouds commenced to drop over City Hill and in a short time all the cottages on that side, those at the bottom, were entirely hid from view. Often during the summer storms the clouds drop just like a misty veil but Friday's sight was very unusual. Hastings Mosier is the envy of the younger and some of the older population of the camp. The cause being two beautiful fox hounds that arrived on Wednesday evening's train. Hastings' other dog, Caesar, feels very much neglected and shows his jealousy very plainly.

SAXON 'SIX'

A BIG TOURING CAR FOR FIVE PEOPLE

In ten minutes time we can convince you that Saxon "Six" is the best car in its class

Now we have no particular brand of sales talk to give you. And we won't go into a lengthy explanation of this or that feature.

Because we don't want to sell you on argument, but on performance. We believe you are more interested in deeds than words.

So we just ask you to consider for a minute or two what Saxon "Six" has actually done in both public competition and private use.

We believe that the performance of Saxon "Six" is the fairest and most conclusive proof we can offer to confirm our statement that Saxon "Six" is the best car at less than $1,000.00.

First, let's look at Saxon "Six" through the eyes of the thousands and thousands of Saxon "Six" owners.

You won't find any class of owners in the country more completely satisfied, or more thoroughly convinced of the superior quality of their car than Saxon "Six" owners.

You will note that it is a frequent occurrence for them to mention its unusual gasoline economy, its uncommon freedom from need of repair service, its superlative strength and stability.

Now it may be that Saxon "Six" owners are prejudiced in favor of Saxon "Six." Perhaps their enthusiasm over Saxon "Six" has carried them away a little bit.

From one viewpoint, this very enthusiasm of Saxon "Six" owners is about as good an argument as any we can think of in favor of your buying a Saxon "Six." But in order to get absolutely unbiased reports on Saxon "Six," let us forget for the time being what owners say and turn to the public performances of Saxon "Six."

It was not so long ago Saxon "Six" entered into competition with many higher priced cars in a noted hill climb in the East. It won this hill climb easily.

A stock model Saxon "Six" engaged a famous Western train in a speed duel over a 5,000 mile course. It defeated the train by a full fifteen minutes.

A stock model Saxon "Six" entered the demonstration contest at the San Diego Exposition motor demonstration show, and captured two firsts and a third place, though exceeded in both power and number of cylinders by higher priced competitors. It might be noted in this connection also, that Saxon "Six" was the only car which won the trophy in two events.

In this contest Saxon "Six" won the hill climb, won the relay race, and tied for third place in the quick "get away" event with a costlier car. It defeated one twelve-cylinder car and two eight-cylinder cars.

To establish its gasoline economy, 206 stock model Saxon "Sixes" driven by Saxon dealers, each traveling 300 miles without stopping, averaged 23.5 miles per gallon of gasoline.

To prove Saxon "Six" stability, strength and endurance, 28 stock model Saxon "Sixes" driven by dealers, raced in relays from New York to San Francisco in six days, eighteen hours and ten minutes.

The reason we are citing these records is merely that you may know that you can buy a car for less than $1000 which will give you just such service. That car is Saxon "Six"—$815 f. o. b. Detroit. And there is not any other car for less than $1000 that will perform like that.

Now, with these facts in mind, we want you to spend ten minutes at least at the wheel of Saxon "Six." More time would be better. But we are confidently and positively certain that ten minutes will be enough to convince you that Saxon "Six" is the best car at less than $1000.
